Burning of S. of V. Hall

About 230 Wednesday morning Miss Mary T. Dutton saw flames coming from the cold air shaft leading to the furnace in the basement of the Sons of Veterans' hall. She quickly gave the alarm and Fred Hale was soon on the street trying to arouse the people. The fire, however, made such rapid headway that the building was in ashes before anything could be done to save its contents. Thus one of the historic landmarks of Northfield disappeared with a suddenness hard to realize.

It was a landmark exceedingly interesting because of its history. Originally it was the meeting house of the Trinitarian society and was built in 1829. Twenty-nine years later it was remodelled and remained practically the same from that time on. It was purchased in 1898 by the Sons of Veterans and since then it has been used by them, by the S. of V. auxiliary, the G. A. R., the W. R. C. and the Red Men for lodge rooms. The S. of V. carried $1000 insurance on the building, but their property within it, which was all destroyed, was not insured; $150 insurance was carried by the Relief Corps and $200 by the Red Men, on insignia, etc. We understand the records of the organizations were not kept in the hall. While it is very certain that the fire started in the air-shaft, it is quite puzzling to account for its cause. The S. of V. had been holding a dance but all had gone by 12:45, and the furnace fire at that time had been out about an hour.

Nearly all of these books are by well known authors.

Beginning a Pastorale

Rev. C. C. Conner began his pastorate in the Unitarian church last Sunday. Introductory to the theme of the day, with announcements, he said, in part:

"I wish that this church might be known to the community as the South church, indicating relative location rather than sectarian aim. As the first religious society of the town, it is justified in its location and certainly by its message, which is a message of life—a message to universal man and woman, youth and maiden, regardless of creed. We call it Christian because this is the most brotherly and inclusive term of which we know."

Mr. Conner has provided printed blanks for a family register of the parish, and will proceed to get the names of all the families therein, residence, members of each and the relation of these to the church and auxiliary organizations.

Capitol Theatre in Athol

Nathan E. Goldstein, president of the G. B. Theatres Corporation of Springfield, spent yesterday in Athol surveying the progress of construction at the New Capitol theatre. He expressed great satisfaction at the stage of the work at this time. Plasterers are busily engaged plastering the auditorium dome and walls, and expect the heavy plastering to be finished and completely dry within a week. At that time the artists and the decorating staff are due to arrive to do the art work and elaborate decorations.

Electricians are now busy installing the giant switchboard with its myriad of connections which will function in providing up-to-the-minute lighting and color schemes. A huge ventilating system with double intake and exhaust rotary fans to keep a fresh supply of pure air pouring through the theatre in a constant flow. A crew of woodworkers are transforming the entrance into one of the most unique lobby ideas in the theatrical world. Safety engineers have checked and surveyed the heavy construction work done to date and pronounced it exceptionally substantial, with a large margin of stress allowed as an extra safety measure. All interior equipment used in the maintenance and operation of the theatre will be approved apparatus passed by the National Board of Fire Underwriters, an assurance of the 100% quality and safety for the patrons of this theatre. Mr. Goldstein stated yesterday that a definite announcement as to the opening day would be made within a few days.

American Legion Items

At the last meeting of the Haven H. Spencer Post, 179, American Legion, plans for the coming year were discussed. The most important activity now on the program is the welfare work, for which funds are sorely needed. The post and the auxiliary are in the territory of Hospital 95, which is the institution in Northampton where mental cases of ex-service men are cared for. In this hospital are 500 sick men, all of whom served in the World War and were disabled in the service of their country. While the Government cares for these men as far as necessities are concerned, there are many things that can be done for them to make their lives more endurable and bring a little sunshine into their darkened lives, things which only their comrades in arms can do.

The post wishes to call the attention of all friends of the soldiers to this important work. In addition, there is much work right here in Northfield for the families of those who gave their lives and health for their country.

Tentative plans for an entertainment were discussed, to be held as part of the program for the latter part of the month. Dates will be given out soon. It will be in the nature of a Home Town Review, made up entirely of local talent. Everybody in town will be asked to take part, either on the stage or as part of the audience. Everything will be in the nature of wholesome fun and the Legion welcomes suggestions from townspeople as to talent that hasn't yet come to our attention. Mail suggestions to C. R. Walker, Northfield.

Granaries or Deer Pits?

Dear Editor:

I believe the historical society has drawn attention to the alleged site of an Indian village called Natanis on the west side of the Connecticut River in the patch of woods a few rods west of the Mount Hermon cemetery, and more especially to 10 or 12 circular holes in the ground, which they say are old Indian granaries. Now some say that the Indians dug deer pits of the same size and shape as these holes, covered them with branches and leaves, drove the deer toward those pits, and so captured some deer. So I would like to ask if any one has examined these Natanis holes and sized up the situation so as to say for sure whether they are granaries or deer pits?—Yours for the truth,

HISTORICUS.

Montague

The Golden Wedding Anniversary of Mr. and Mrs. Frank O. Johnson was celebrated on New Year's day in the Montague town hall. Besides the people of Montague there were many from out of town present to felicitate the well known and highly esteemed couple. The reception was planned and carried out by the local order of the Eastern Star and the worthy matron, Mrs. Clara Marsh was chosen to present the couple with a purse of gold.

In her presentation address, Mrs. Marsh spoke of Mr. Johnson's long and excellent service as postmaster and the good work that both he and Mrs. Johnson have done for the community. Mr. and Mrs. Johnson were married in Buffalo, N. Y., Jan. 1, 1880, by the Rev. A. A. Ward. They made Montague, Mass., their first place of residence and for a number of years Mr. Johnson was engaged in the grocery business. After a time they moved to Athol, but in 1897 they came back to Montague. Mr. Johnson was appointed postmaster that year and held the office until 1909. He emphasized the fact of physical education being so essential in the training of youth today, laying particular stress upon the children in the elementary grades during the plastic age, when the best results can be obtained. Playground and gymnasium apparatus are as important in our schools today as any other element which goes to make up modern school equipment. Dr. Schrader was very interesting and instructive and gave his hearers many inspirations and high ideals in this particular subject.

A committee was appointed to see what can be done in the future for our town schools toward a project of this kind.

Refreshments of cake, coffee and nuts were served after the meeting. The hostesses were Mrs. Joe W. Field, assisted by Mrs. Harry James, Mrs. Harold Bigelow, Mrs. Martin James, Mrs. Edward Morgan, Mrs. Ralph Holton, Mrs. Fred Bolton, Miss Faith Taylor, Miss Priscilla Wright and Mrs. Charles Leach.

Tercentenary News

The town tercentenary committee meets this week to shake down the many suggestions for the coming celebration and to prepare a budget to submit to the Selectmen in view of the approaching town meeting. It is well understood that no town money is available and no plans in the name of the town are authorized until voted upon in town meeting.

The State has already appropriated $100,000 for the preliminary expenses of the tercentenary commission. Larger appropriations are expected from the present session of the General Court to speed up the various State celebration projects.

A typical New England town meeting will be given by the town of Belmont as part of its tercentenary celebration. The town of Mashpee will hold Indian pow-wows at intervals during August and September. Quincy and other towns will reconstruct trading posts as features of their celebrations.

Already over a dozen towns throughout the State are planning to give pageants during the present tercentenary year.

The following announcement is by Mrs. Ella A. Boole, president of the National Women's Christian Temperance Union:

Jan. 16 will mark the 10th anniversary of the 18th amendment and the Woman's Christian Temperance Union will celebrate the birthday in 10,000 local unions. We have been preparing these celebrations for months. They will be religious in character; they will emphasize the great economic and social benefits which have come to the United States under prohibition, even with imperfect enforcement; our speakers everywhere will appeal to the public for personal observance of the law. Church bells will be rung for 10 minutes at noon and in many places the story of the inception, development and final prohibition victory will be told in pageant form.

Speakers at the celebrations will point out that "it takes two to make a bootlegger" and that the crime and graft laid at the door of prohibition is financed by the "otherwise law abiding citizens" who bribe the criminal bootlegger to violate the law. The great financial prize for which the gangsters and the gunmen fight is the money of the drinker.

We will accentuate the 10 great benefits which the nation has experienced under prohibition. These are: No more open saloons, less drunkenness, less vice, greater wealth, less poverty, happier homes, more homes, better children, better health, happier United States.

We emphasize these points because most economists and sociological workers agree on them and the opponents of prohibition have never denied them. We will also point out that in 10 years no opponent of prohibition has proposed a better method of dealing with the liquor problem. The only suggestion hinted at is the repeal of the 18th amendment and the adoption of the Canadian plan of governmental sale, either of which would re-establish the liquor business. There is a futile proposal but the propaganda with it has its effect in supporting sentiment for law violation.

Hard on his Pants

During a fire prevention campaign in a leading American city, younger school students were asked to write essays on fire prevention. A winning paper said:

"Hundreds of people are killed every year by fire. Mother was dry cleaning some clothes, the gasoline ignited and flames were all around but luckily she wasn't burned; the sink was close so in the course of time she got the fire out. Otherwise we wouldn't have had a bed to sleep in."

"Just the other day I had several matches in my back pocket. I got down on the floor to get a nail out of the side of our row boat which we were fixing. I felt something warm in the seat of my pants until I couldn't stand it any longer. I couldn't imagine what it was, but you should have seen me strip my pants off. I found out all those matches ignited when I moved off the floor and burned the whole pocket out of my pants. Luckily, my pants were not inflammable or I would have gone up in smoke."

A homely object lesson given by a child, illustrating conditions which cause fires every day—improper use of gasoline and matches not kept in a proper container.

Fire insurance companies are doing everything in their power to reduce fire hazards and beneficial results will be secured in proportion as the public—men, women and children—cooperate to save their own lives and property.

Down to Fundamentals

In any consideration of the automobile accident problem and its proposed cures we must get down to fundamentals.

It has been conclusively proven that accidents cannot be legislated away, so long as the legislation takes the form of merely providing indemnity for the injured. Compulsory insurance, from the standpoint of prevention, has proven a colossal failure. It has but added more complexities to an already complex situation.

On the other hand, tests conducted in many cities and states have proven that logical traffic laws, intelligently enforced, will produce a decrease in the accident record. Fines or jail terms for the irresponsible, incompetent, drunken or careless drivers—the 10 per cent who cause 90 per cent of all accidents—work wonders.

The fundamental problem is to prevent the accident from occurring. Until we provide and enforce laws that keep the highways clear for the competent and the careful, every year will doubtless witness further increases in the victims of the mishandled automobile.

THE GREATEST CHEVROLET IN CHEVROLET HISTORY

Today, Chevrolet presents the Greatest Chevrolet in Chevrolet History—a smoother, faster, better Six—with beautiful new bodies by Fisher.

Basically, it is the same sturdy, substantial Six which won such tremendous popularity in 1929. But it is a greater car in every way—for there are scores of vital improvements which contribute to comfort, performance, endurance and safety.

An improved six-cylinder valve-in-head motor, with its capacity increased to 50 horsepower; four Delco-Lovejoy hydraulic shock absorbers; fully-enclosed internal-expanding weather-proof brakes; a new dash gasoline gauge; heavier and stronger rear axle; Fisher non-glare windshield; larger tires—

—these are typical of the many improvements found throughout the entire design.

But most impressive of all—this smoother, faster, better Six is available—at greatly reduced prices!

During 1929, more than a million three hundred thousand persons bought six-cylinder Chevrolets. This enormous volume has made possible many savings in the Chevrolet factories—and, in keeping with its long-established policy, Chevrolet is sharing these savings with the public. No written description can do justice to the extra value and quality provided in this new car. Visit your Chevrolet dealer—see this car—ride in it—and judge for yourself the sensational value it represents.

McCaughern Golden Wedding

Reaching the 50th year of their married life, Mr. and Mrs. John P. McCaughern quietly observed their golden wedding anniversary in their Canal street home on Wednesday, Jan. 1.

There were but very few people present, only a few immediate relatives, owing to the fact that Mr. and Mrs. McCaughern were called on that day to Keene, N. H., to attend the funeral of his nephew, Joseph R. Kennedy.

Mr. and Mrs. McCaughern were married in North Walpole, N. H., Jan. 1, 1880, by the Rev. Fr. Maurice Galvin. They came to this town soon after, where they have since lived.

Mrs. McCaughern was, before her marriage, Miss Jane Carrie Mann and was born in Wallingford, Vt., July 22, 1859, being one of 10 children of Luke and Jane McGinnis Mann. She received her education in the public schools of Wallingford. She came to this town with her parents in the Spring of 1878.

Mr. McCaughern was born in Hinsdale, Nov. 29, 1856, and was one of seven children of Daniel and Nancy (Diamond) McCaughern. His entire life has been spent here, where he has been employed as finisher at the Amidon woolen mills.

Three children were born to Mr. and

Mrs. McCaughern, as follows: Nancy Diamond, wife of Samuel Thompson of Keene, N. H.; Jane Margaret, who died in 1919, and Catherine Ann, wife of Francis Corkery of Keene. There are also six grandchildren, Francis V. Thompson, Catherine Ann Thompson, Lawrence Edward Thompson, Bernard James Thompson, Richard Francis Corkery and John Phillip Corkery, all of Keene.

Mr. and Mrs. McCaughern have always been highly respected citizens and everyone wishes them the best of luck for years to come.

The couple were the recipients of many gifts, including a sum of money in gold, as well as other substantial gifts. They wish at this time to thank their many friends for these and for the beautiful cards of congratulations which they received.

Newspaper Headquarters

Jesse W. Field, owner and proprietor of Field's Drug store, has been appointed authorized agent for the Boston Daily and Sunday Globe, as well as the Boston Daily and Sunday Post. Mr. Field is also carrying all the other Boston papers, the Springfield (Mass.) papers, the Northfield Press, the Brattleboro Daily Reformer, the Vermont Phoenix and the Manchester Union. He expects to go into this business on an extensive scale, and some time ago he started a magazine counter, which has improved so much that about every known magazine now published can be purchased there.

Grange Installation

At the joint installation, which included Wantastiquet Grange, P. of H., No. 133, of this town, and Arlington Grange of Winchester, N. H., the officers of both lodges were installed on Wednesday evening, Jan. 1, by National Lecturer James C. Farmer, who was assisted by Miss Reta Gee and Mrs. Grace Toof. Wantastiquet Grange officers were installed as follows: Master, Levi J. Howard; overseer, Mrs. Jennie M. Butler; lecturer, Mrs. Ruth A. Howard; steward, Herman Hudson; assistant steward, Dr. Hubert L. Brown; chaplain, Mrs. Hattie Dickerman; treasurer, Miss Joslyn Gray; M. Currier; Flora, Mrs. Martha F. secretary, Mrs. Hannah Pike; gatekeeper, Harley F. Sheldon; Ceres, Mrs. Florence A. Smith; Pomona, Mrs. Hazel Adams; lady assistant steward, Miss Marion S. Dickerman; member of executive committee, for three years, Gustavus S. Smith.

The Arlington Grange officers installed were: Master, Cherrie Whitehead; overseer, Percy Hill; lecturer, Edith Whitehead; steward, Murray Baker; assistant steward, Henry Blodgett; chaplain, Elliott K. Baker; treasurer, Walter Nutting; secretary, Mary Baker; gatekeeper, Frank Blodgett; Ceres, Inez Springneer; Pomona, Stella Kinsman; Flora, Jennie Day; lady assistant steward, Elizabeth Whitehead; member of executive committee, for three years, Oliver Day.

The tableaux were in charge of Mrs. Hazel Ruber and Mrs. Alida Sheldon. Those who took part in them were: Viola Worden, Corrine Stewart, Thelma Townsend, Meta McCormick and Eleanor Roberts. The regalia bearers were Leah Sweet and Iris Streeter; wand bearers were Marion Coulter and

Joseph R. Kennedy

Joseph Robert Kennedy, 62, a former resident of Hinsdale, died at the Elliott Community hospital in Keene, N. H., Jan. 1. Mr. Kennedy will be remembered by many of the older residents of this town. Besides his widow he leaves two sons, Robert of West Swazey, N. H., and William of Bennington, Vt. Burial took place in Bennington, Vt.

S. S. Strouse

Sidney S. Strouse, 55, a former resident of Hinsdale for 18 years, died Sunday morning at 4 o'clock at his home at 11 Maple street, Brattleboro, Vt., where he had lived the past year. He was taken ill at Christmas time, double pneumonia developing.

He was born in New York city, Aug. 15, 1874, a son of Abraham and Matilda Strouse. His father was founder of the Strouse-Adler Co. of New Haven, Conn. He married, many years ago, Miss Lillian Morris.

Mr. and Mrs. Strouse moved about 18 years ago from Boston to Hinsdale, where they made their home on Monument road, selling their home a year ago to Charles H. Gundinger.

Besides his wife, Mr. Strouse leaves one daughter, Lorraine, of Brattleboro, one brother, Clarence A. Strouse of Altadena, Cal., and one sister, Miss Lillian Strouse of New York city.

He was a member of Golden Rule Lodge, No. 77, A. F. and A. M. of Hinsdale, Bingham chapter, No. 30, O. E. S., of Brattleboro, Wantastiquet Grange, P. of H., No. 133, of Hinsdale, Brattleboro Lodge of Elks and the Brattleboro Chamber of Commerce.

Mr. Strouse was a frequent visitor in Brattleboro while a resident of this town, and made many friends there as well as here. He was extremely devoted to his home and family.

Masonic services were held at his Brattleboro home this week Tuesday morning at 10 o'clock, and the body was taken to New York for burial Wednesday.

F. H. Lombard has re-opened his meat market on Church street.

Mr. and Mrs. Rufus M. Langworthy entertained National Lecturer James C. Farmer during his stay in town.

Another dance will be conducted in F. of A. hall this week Saturday evening. Music will be by a synchophone.

Walker Kimball returned to Boston University Sunday and Miss Rose Helen Jeffords returned to Simmons College.

Wantastiquet Grange, No. 133, P. of H., has been invited to attend the installation of officers of Northfield Grange, No. 3, on Jan. 28. High Priest of Demeter Charles M. Gardner will be the installing officer.

There will be a dance in the Town hall this (Friday) evening. Music will be furnished by Nat Schutzman and his orchestra.

School re-opened on Monday of this week after having been closed for two weeks on account of the Christmas and New Year vacations.

The annual concert and ball, under the auspices of the Hinsdale fire department, will be held in the Town hall, Friday evening, Jan. 17. Music will be furnished by Williamson's orchestra. A large attendance is desired to help out the fire department.

The past week-end seemed to be fated with fires of a varied nature. In another item, appearing in these columns is an account of three fires, which occurred from Thursday to Saturday evening, and on Sunday morning the siren was again sounded about 10.30 o'clock for a boiler explosion at the home of Harold Gerovitz on Main street, which, for a time, threatened to be quite a fire. At 5.45 p. m. Sunday the siren was blown for a serious chimney fire at the home of E. Monroe Dodge on the Brattleboro road. As far as is known, that ended a series of five fires in four days, which is something unusual for Hinsdale.

It has been discovered in the affairs of 1929 that the long skirt has triumphed over knocked knees. This may be set down as one of the greatest achievements in human progress during the 12 months.

The Proposed Referendum

In reading the address which Governor Allen delivered to the Legislature of our Commonwealth on Jan. 1, there may have been some who did not continue to the end. Any one who failed to finish it even to the last word did so to his own loss. It is to be hoped that later he saw that portion of it which deals with the Observance of Law. What the Governor says about law enforcement may be last in the order of topics disposed of, but it is first in importance to the citizens of the Bay State. He reminds us that Massachusetts has always been a stalwart supporter and defender of the Constitution of the U. S. The 18th Amendment is a part of the Constitution. Our duty toward it is clear-cut and well defined. "The repeal of our State law for the enforcement of the Eighteenth Amendment," he declares, "would not change the fundamental situation with regard to prohibition. The Federal Constitution rules. The repeal of the State Enforcement Act would be an open invitation and an incentive to violate the law. It would breed and nourish lawlessness—lawlessness which spreads as a contagion to destroy all law . . . I urge in the strongest possible terms upon every officer within the Commonwealth the duty of strict enforcement of the law. I urge the equally important duty of strict observance of the law upon every citizen."

We cannot conceive the Legislature voting for the repeal of the Law Enforcement Act. It would be so flagrant defiance of the Governor's position that the repeal measure will be passed over, thus leaving the decision to a referendum of the people. The "wets" are assuming that such a referendum would win the cause for them. They have considerable strength in the State—sufficient strength in fact to stir the "drys" to ceaseless vigilance. If the referendum comes let it be fair and square. It is a legal method of settling such a controversy as is now waging, but it behooves those of us who believe in prohibition to hold fast that which we have. We have good and strong reasons for believing there is a lot of bunk in this proposal of the wets to refer the matter to the people. If once, why not twice—why not a dozen times? The truth is it has been referred to the people and the people have declared themselves. Shall we say, "Oh, well, we won, but if our friends, the enemy, want to fight the battle over again, well and good. We will lick them again." Prof. T. N. Carver, Professor of Economics in Harvard University, has given a very vigorous statement to the press. He reminds us that even a gambler, if in his right mind, will not gamble to see whether or not he shall keep what he has won—nor will a laborer who has earned his wages submit to a vote or a gamble to see whether he shall keep them or give them to some one else. He then goes on to say, "The Republicans won the last general election in the manner prescribed by the Constitution. Suppose that some dissatisfied person had argued that the election was not a true test of public sentiment, and had proposed a referendum to see whether Mr. Hoover should be president or not, would the Republicans have accepted the suggestion? Not unless they were out of their heads. The Eighteenth Amendment was adopted in the manner prescribed by the Constitution for its own amendment. It was opposed by the 'wets' and favored by the 'drys.' The 'wets' lost and the 'drys' won. Now the 'wets' are talking about a referendum to see whether we shall keep and enforce that amendment or not. If they expect the 'drys' to fall in with the suggestion they must have a poorer opinion of the mentality of the 'drys' than the facts would seem to warrant.

As to the situation in Massachusetts, it is not so very different. Massachusetts legally ratified the Eighteenth Amendment and helped, to that extent, to make it a part of the fundamental law of the land. Consistently with that she adopted a State Enforcement law. It is now proposed to hold a referendum to see whether the enforcement law shall be retained or repealed. Naturally, the "drys" oppose it, and for precisely the reasons given above."

Hinsdale, N. H.

The Rev. Fr. Bolger, C. S. S. R., of Boston, assisted the Rev. D. S. Duffy on Christmas in celebration of the midnight mass, delivering a sermon on that occasion, which was very appropriate. The choir of St. Joseph's church rendered Emerson's Mass in a most pleasing and appropriate manner, under the direction of Mrs. Alice Provost as organist. The other masses on Christmas day were at 8.30, and 9.30, respectively.

Another Achievement

The amazing progress made by the telephone industry is exemplified by the fact that service from a large steamer, sailing from New York to Europe, has been established. Anyone on the steamer can talk to anyone possessing a telephone in this country, at very low rates, during a large part of the ship's voyage.

In 15 years long distance telephone development has virtually circled the globe. He would be bold indeed who dared to forecast telephone achievements 20 years hence.

A small restaurant was kept by a man who prided himself on his cooking. He was amazed to hear a young salesman criticize a pie one day. "Pie, young fellow? Why, I made pies before you were born." "Well, why sell 'em now?"

Bruce—Glines

Raymond E. Bruce, son of Mrs. Gertrude E. Bruce of this town, and Miss Ruth Glines, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. B. E. Glines of Manchester, N. H., were united in marriage Friday evening, Jan. 3, at 8 o'clock, in the home of Mr. and Mrs. Harry L. Bruce on High street. Rev. Edwin P. Wood, pastor of All Souls' Church in Brattleboro, and of the Universalist church in this town, performed the single ring ceremony. The couple were attended by Mr. and Mrs. Harry Bruce.

The bride was formerly teacher of commercial subjects in the local high school and resigned at the close of the 1929 school year. On Thursday of last week Rt. Rev. Monsignor M. J. Splaine of Brookline, Mass., the Very Rev. D. A. Sullivan and Rev. Fr. Kelligher, both of Wellesley, Mass., were guests of Rev. D. S. Duffy for two days.

News has been received here that Albert F. Fisher of this town who, with his wife, have been visiting their son, Earl Fisher and family in East Orange, N. J., sustained a shock the middle of last week. It was expected that Mr. Fisher will be removed to his home here, if his condition permits.

The Hinsdale Woman's club met in the home of Mrs. H. L. Brown last Tuesday afternoon. Mrs. Howard I. Streeter read an extremely interesting paper on the history of quilt making. The roll call, Our Early Patchwork, was responded to by 12 members. During the social hour the hostess served salads, rolls and coffee.

Three chimney fires occurred the latter part of last week and were reported by the following: Still alarm for a serious chimney fire at the Grover house on Brattleboro street, Thursday evening, and Saturday evening, at 5:45 the siren was sounded for a fire at the former Hooker place on Brattleboro street, which is now owned and occupied by Joe Jasnowski and family. The third chimney fire, for which a still alarm was given, occurred at the Weed tenement block on Canal street, Saturday evening about 6:15.

"I've Been Reading"

By WILDER BUELL

ALICE'S ADVENTURES IN WONDERLAND, by Lewis Carroll, Macmillan Company, pages 224, price $1.75.

AMERICAN FOLK AND FAIRY TALES, by Rachel Field, Charles Scribners Sons, pages 302, price $3.00.

COURAGEOUS COMPANIONS, by Charles J. Finger, Longmans Green & Company, pages 304, price $3.00.

In no field of daily life has the new attitude toward childhood that came in with Froebel and Ellen Key borne such valuable fruits as in the realm of children's books.

With a clearer understanding of child psychology, a better feeling for the child as a personality, a wider idea of the rights of childhood, we have seen within recent years a vast improvement in the number and variety of children's books. That does not mean that anything better has been written than a few of the great books for children of the past, such as Alice in Wonderland, Treasure Island, or the fairy and folktales of Grimm, Anderson and others. It does not mean that such old favorites are brought out in more attractive form, that they are more widely distributed and that the terrible books of goody-goody stories, and their counterparts in the world of adventure, are no longer a child's chief source of reading.

And books for children are better printed, better illustrated and more suited in every way to the development of good taste and a love of literature. The three books under review are examples of the best in modern book-making for children, published by three of our oldest and most distinguished publishing houses. The Macmillan book is an edition of "Alice in Wonderland" and "Alice Through the Looking Glass," with the original illustrations clearly printed on fine paper.

and stoutly bound. A book that is easy to read and handle that will stand the test of many readings. The Scribners book is a collection of familiar folktales, like the Great Stone Face and Rip Van Winkle, also beautifully printed and illustrated, a joy to handle. The Longmans book is a modern adventure story for elder children, the book that won the Longman's prize for the best child's book of the year, another example of fine book making. I strongly recommend these three books for children. "American Folk and Fairy Tales" will interest us here. Is it that there is a scarcity of folklore in New England? Most of the American material, according to this authority, comes from other sections and other States. I wonder if that is strictly true. May it not be possible that it is rather that we in New England have not appreciated the folklore that we have had, and have failed to preserve it. For we certainly have folk songs! Has the editor of this book forgotten Mrs. Goose of Massachusetts, whose daughter married a publisher and who thus became immortal as Mother Goose?

And, unless there is an unknown bard singing in the hills, who is also a joker, we have many examples of curious old rhymes and songs still surviving among the children of our own community. Someone with skill and taste for quaint survivals might be well repaid in an effort to collect them. I submit one that, for the rhyme alone, deserves a place in a museum:

"I'm on the King's land, the King ain't to hum.

The King's gone to Boston, to buy a jug of rum."

If that is not genuine folklore, what is?

Pick-Ups

A Georgia statesman tells the story of an aged Negro who saw an extraordinary looking instrument in the shop of an optician. He gazed in open-mouthed wonder, and, turning to the optician, inquired:

"What is it, boss?"

"That," replied the optician, "is an ophthalmometer."

"Sho'," muttered the other, his eyes still fastened on the curious looking thing on the counter, as he backed out, "sho', dat's what I was afeared it was!"

New Chevrolet Plans

Following the announcement last week of the improved 1930 Chevrolet Six at greatly reduced prices, the Chevrolet Motor Company last week launched manufacturing and sales activities designed to meet the requirements of what promises to be another record year for the public acceptance of six cylinder automobiles.

Factory officials expressed themselves as highly gratified over the reception of the new Chevrolet Six at the New York National Automobile show last week. Thousands of orders and hundreds of congratulatory letters from the nation-wide Chevrolet dealer organization told something of the success with which the new product is meeting across the United States.

Meanwhile, so that the thousands of orders already on hand may be taken care of with a minimum of delay, the 16 giant Chevrolet plants are speeding toward capacity operation with all the haste consistent with Chevrolet's precision manufacturing methods. Employment at the Chevrolet factories is at the highest January level in the history of the company, with many of the plants maintaining two shifts.

At the same time the sales division, under the direction of H. J. Klingler, vice-president and general sales manager, sounded the formal opening gun of the nation-wide sales campaign. Wednesday, Jan. 8, at a mammoth Chevrolet dealer meeting in New York city. Two thousand dealers from various parts of the Atlantic seaboard heard the Chevrolet sales chief outline the company's plans for the year.

The New York meeting was the first of a series of 41 similar gatherings that will be held this winter from coast to coast in a comprehensive effort to appraise the company's far-flung organization of the plans which Chevrolet has arranged for 1930. In the course of these meetings, which will continue until the third week in February, every Chevrolet dealer in the United States will have the opportunity of listening at first hand to the Chevrolet message of 1930 and talking with central office officials.

Gatherings in each city embrace a business show in the afternoon and a banquet in the evening. The afternoon business meeting is perhaps the most unique and comprehensive ever undertaken by a large industrial organization.

These business meetings feature a number of playlets graphically depicting the successful operation of a retail automobile business in its various phases. All parts are played by members of the Chevrolet organization.

To make this business show possible, more than a carload of drops, curtains and stage fixtures are taken to each city. Perhaps $50,000 worth of show equipment is required to stage the afternoon performance. A group of professional stage hands travel with the party and handle the work backstage.

In order to get the Chevrolet message over to the dealer organization in as short a space of time as possible, four groups of officials are conducting meetings simultaneously.

Heading the party that will conduct meetings in the Southwest, California and the Pacific Northwest will be D. E. Ralston, assistant general sales manager. The party making the northeastern cities will be in charge of J. C. Chick, assistant general sales manager, while the meeting in the southeast will be conducted by M. D. Douglas, parts and service manager. R. K. White, advertising manager, will head the group handling meetings in the central section of the country.

Penalizing the Thrifty

Frank N. Julian, former insurance superintendent of Alabama, in an article in the Southern Underwriter, claims that insurance companies pay more taxes and get less for the amount paid than any other taxpayer.

When one considers how little the insurance business asks of the state, the weight of Mr. Julian's statement becomes more apparent.

Taxes levied against insurance companies are a very direct tax on prudent citizens who seek to protect their lives and property and thereby relieve the state from the obligation of caring for them if, from lack of insurance, they were made destitute through accident, fire or other misfortune.

Every tax dollar taken from insurance companies beyond what is necessary for proper public supervision of insurance, is double taxation of private citizens by way of increased insurance premiums which they must pay.

There would be tremendous objection from the public to any attempt to penalize the individual who tried to build up a savings bank account. There is no difference in principle between that and penalizing the man who provides a savings account through insurance premiums paid to protect him against loss.

Market Roads Needed

According to an authoritative survey, about 30 per cent of our highway system should consist of high-cost roads, and 70 per cent low-cost.

Many communities, in the urge to build more and better highways, have committed the error of constructing expensive highways in sections where the amount of traffic does not justify them.

Scientifically balanced road building programs will permit a community or state to construct a maximum mileage of useful roads from funds available. At the present time there is a strong trend toward extending moderate cost highways of oil or asphalt in rural sections. Such improved secondary or market roads must be given to the farmer and country dweller.

They shift with summer ease on the coldest morning.

Our electric gear flusher draws out the old grease and chips; flushes the gears with kerosene and leaves the gear case ready for new, clean winter lubricant in just a few minutes.

We charge you only for the new lubricant.

Highway Safety

Section 8. (Stopping on state high-ways.)

(a) No person shall park or leave standing any vehicle, whether attended or unattended, upon a paved or improved or main travelled portion of any highway, outside of a business or residential district, when it is practicable to park or leave such vehicle standing off the paved or improved or main travelled portion of such highway; provided, in no event shall any person park or leave standing any vehicle, whether attended or unattended, upon any highway unless a clear and unobstructed width of not less than twenty feet upon the main travelled portion of said highway opposite such standing vehicle shall be left for free passage of other vehicles thereon, nor unless a clear view of such vehicles may be obtained for a distance of two hundred feet in each direction upon such highway; and further provided no person shall park a vehicle under any condition where official highway signs have been erected prohibiting the same.

(b) Whenever any police officer shall find a vehicle standing upon a highway in violation of the provisions of this section, he is hereby authorized to move such vehicle or require the driver or person in charge to move such vehicle to a position permitted under this section.

(c) The provisions of this section shall not apply to the driver of any vehicle which is disabled while upon the paved or improved or main travelled portion of any highway in such manner and to such extent that it is impossible to avoid stopping and temporarily leaving such vehicle in such position, provided however that such driver shall take all necessary steps to warn the public of the obstruction.

(d) No person shall park or leave standing any vehicle, whether attended or unattended, upon any highway within one hundred feet of an intersection at which traffic controls are installed.

Section 9. (Obstructing traffic.)

No person shall drive any vehicle in such a manner as to unnecessarily obstruct the normal movement of traffic upon any highway.

Section 10. (Obedience to traffic control signals.)

Colors in traffic control signals shall have the commands ascribed to them in this section, and no other meanings, and no driver of a vehicle shall fail to comply with said commands.

(1) RED: While the red lens is illuminated, no driver of a vehicle facing the signal shall enter the intersection, provided, however, that if a right or left green arrow lens is illuminated at the same time, a driver may enter the intersection to make the turn permitted by the arrow.

(2) YELLOW: While the yellow lens is illuminated, any waiting driver of a vehicle shall remain standing until the green lens is illuminated, and any driver of a vehicle approaching the intersection who is further from the intersection than the legal braking distance for the speed at which he is travelling at the time the yellow lens was first illuminated, shall stop said vehicle before the intersection, or a marked stop line.

(3) GREEN: While the green lens is illuminated, any driver of a vehicle facing the signal shall proceed, subject to the safety of those who may have been in the intersection at the time the lens was illuminated, and subject to the special turning restrictions contained in paragraph (5) of this section.

(4) RED and YELLOW: While the red and yellow lenses are illuminated together, no driver of a vehicle shall enter the intersection, and during such time the intersection shall be reserved for the exclusive use of pedestrians.

(5) GREEN ARROW LENS: When a special right or left turn green arrow lens is incorporated in a signal, drivers facing said signal may make a turn in the direction of such arrow only when such lens is illuminated.

(6) FLASHING RED: The red lens when illuminated with rapid intermittent flashes shall indicate the intersection of a through way and shall require drivers to come to a complete stop before entering the intersection.

(7) FLASHING YELLOW: The yellow lens when illuminated with rapid intermittent flashes shall indicate the presence of danger and shall permit drivers to proceed only with caution.

Section 11. (Effect and Repeal.)

These rules and regulations are to be effective on and after November 1, 1929, and the Department of Public Works hereby reserves the right after a public hearing and with the approval of the governor and council to alter, amend, or revoke any or all of the foregoing rules and regulations.

Section 12. (Penalty.)

Whoever violates any of the provisions of these rules and regulations shall upon conviction be subject to a penalty not exceeding twenty dollars for each offense.

Jailing the Telephone Sponsors

Sixty years ago a Boston newspaper published an article commending the police for arresting a person who had attempted to "exhort funds from ignorant and superstitious people by exhibiting a device which he says will convey the human voice any distance over metallic wires so that it will be heard by the listener at the other end."

Today the telephone is essential in almost every business and social contact.

Wedding Anniversary

The neighbors of Northfield Farms community met Wednesday evening and gave Mr. and Mrs. J. S. Hammond a surprise party, it being 46 years on New Year's Eve since their marriage. Five tables of cards were played, while the others visited. About 47 in all were present. Mrs. Charles Morgan and Mrs. Murray Hammond were in charge, assisted by Mrs. Dan Donahue, Mrs. Elbert Chamberlain, Mrs. Andrew Canedy, Miss Agnes Brocklesly and Laurence Hammond. The wedding cake was made by Mrs. Hammond's sister, Mrs. Elbert Chamberlain of Greenfield. After a pleasant evening, the party broke up at a late hour, wishing their hosts a Happy New Year. Refreshments of sandwiches, coffee, cake and fruit pudding were served.

Peter Bartus has a new Plymouth coach.

The book committee met at the library Saturday afternoon at 2 p. m. to select new books.

Melvin and Leslie Glazier returned to Middlebury College on Monday, Jan. 6, after spending the Christmas vacation with their parents, Mr. and Mrs. H. Glazier.

The pupils at No. 3 school at Northfield Farms who have been neither absent nor tardy during November and December are: Harold Williams, Richard Mann, Howard Williams, Philip Mann, Jr., Susanna Wilder, Florence Hale, Robert Russell, Esther Hale and Thomas Russell. The only pupil who has been neither absent nor tardy so far this school year is Howard Williams.

Report cards were given to the children of District No. 4 on Jan. 6. In Miss Baker's room those on the honor roll were: Joanna Aleksiewicz, Edna Aleksiewicz, Melvin Brown, Barbara Cota, Pauline Podenski, Edith Tenney, William Scott. On Miss Allen's honor roll were the following: Victoria Bartus, Phyllis Cota, Stella Czernick, Margaret Donahue. These pupils average the highest marks in every subject for the months of November and December.

Pay Rolls and Politics

An English member of Parliament a few years ago wrote a level-headed commonsense book that outsold all others and the title was "Industries versus Politics."

His argument was that steady employment and good payrolls were more important than the ordinary political plover one heard or read in the newspapers or that was talked on the hustings.

A newspaper that gives a good share of its space to news about payrolls and industries is more humanly interesting than the most learned disquisitions about the claims for this or that political party.

It is of great importance for the press to make itself the community exponent of payrolls and industries that add men and women to the payroll column.

A newspaper which dedicates itself to the idea of making its home city and district an industrial center and pledges itself to give a fair account of space to industrial development, renders a public service of inestimable value which should receive hearty support from all citizens.
